Developments regulatory environment

USO

- Approval ACM on cost allocation methodology, tariff headroom determined for 2016
- Cost savings and rate increases remain necessary to mitigate the impact from volume decline
- New tariffs announced: base stamp rate increase by €0.04 from €0.69 to €0.73

Non-USO

- Adverse effects of ACM measures limiting competitive position
- Potential longer term market effect: price increases, volume decline and pressure on future innovations
- Estimated financial impact for PostNL may add up to €30 million - €50 million annualised, fully visible within 3 to 4 years
- Full energy in developing mitigating actions, dialogue with ACM to strive for healthy competition

PostNL strives to safeguard a reliable and accessible postal network in the longer term

Continue to invest in Nexive

Positive contribution with growth potential
