1 General

Permitted Shipments

- The minimum dimensions are 10 cm (longest side) x 1 cm (shortest side) x 10 cm (other sides), and the maximum dimensions are 175 cm (longest side) x 58 cm (shortest side) x 78 cm (other sides). The maximum dimensions for Shipments that can be delivered in a PostNL Parcel and Letter machine are 61 cm (longest side) x 41 cm (shortest side) x 52.5 cm (other sides) The maximum weight per package is 31.5 kg.
- The non-standard processing surcharge will be applied to Shipments larger than 100 cm (longest side) x 58 cm (shortest side) x 70 cm (other side) and/or with a weight between 23 kg and 31.5 kg.
- Surcharges are applied to Shipments larger than 50 dm³. These surcharges depend on the size of the package and apply as of 50 dm³, 100 dm³ and 200 dm³.
- If a Shipment is larger than 50 dm³ and is also subject to a non-standard processing surcharge, the highest surcharge will be applied. A Shipment with a destination within the Netherlands may consist of multiple separate packages. A package must consist of one box, bag or tube and may not consist of multiple separate packages that have been taped together.
- The packages must have satisfactory packaging.
- A Shipment with a destination within the Netherlands may consist of multiple separate packages. A package must consist of one box, bag or tube and may not consist of multiple separate packages that have been taped together.

Appropriate packaging guidelines

- Use secondary packaging where necessary. Opt for a material that is sufficiently robust and will not damage other packages (such as wood or metal).
- The packaging is robust if it can withstand any wear and tear that occurs during transport, can cope with all weather conditions and if the package cannot be opened without leaving evidence of tampering.
- Non-transparent, neutral packaging must be used for packaging valuable goods.
- Make sure the packaging is properly sealed, preferably using tape.
- Avoid pressure points (such as legs, corners, protrusions) and unfilled spaces. Evenly distribute the weight, for example, using filling material. This prevents the product shifting about inside the packaging.
- For breakable or other fragile goods, a material buffer between the wall of the package and the product is recommended.
- Contact PostNL if you require advice on suitable packaging.

Delivery time

- The delivery time is the time between the parcel's proof-of-acceptance scan at PostNL and the first attempt to deliver the package to the Addressee. The recipient could be a business, private or P.O. Box address (in the Netherlands).
- PostNL strives to deliver package with a destination within the Netherlands and Belgium in the course of the next working day.
- Packages sent to an address on the Wadden Islands, abroad or a P.O. Box (also if a Freepost number is linked to a P.O. Box) are not delivered on Monday.
Packages sent abroad (except for Belgium) may not be delivered on Monday; this depends on the destination.

Packaging

PostNL is pleased to provide you with a flexible parcel delivery service. Special PostNL roller containers are available for this purpose. You can use the roller containers to prepare your bulk parcel shipments. No other use is permitted. PostNL may apply additional charges if this happens. See also: Appendix 5: General Terms and Conditions for the Use of Receptacles.

Bulk shipments

To prevent the delivery time of bulk shipments being delayed, we request a notification be provided to PostNL at least five days in advance for:

- Bulk shipments of over 1,000 packages with destinations within the Netherlands.
- Bulk shipments of over 100 packages subject to non-standard processing or destined for the EU/Non-EU.

Shipping applications

All parcels, pallets or break bulk cargo must be accompanied by a shipping label in accordance with PostNL specifications. PostNL has applications available for pre-registering packages and creating labels (see Table 1).

Pre-registration

Pre-registration is essential for the quality and delivery time for which PostNL strives. Therefore, all Shipments must be pre-registered by the client using one of the applications (see Table 1). Supplying the recipient's email address in the pre-registration makes a significant contribution to the quality and delivery time. This is why you must always provide the recipient's email address in the pre-registration, if you know it. PostNL does not accept any liability for services not performed correctly if the pre-registration was not performed, not performed on time or was incorrect. The extra handling for packages that are not pre-registered or not pre-registered correctly increases the cost of those packages. The Non-pre-registered surcharge applies in this case. PostNL applies a storage period of seven (7) days for pre-registration. Parcels presented after this seven-day period will not be handled as pre-registered. The Non-pre-registered surcharge also applies to these packages. Insufficient quality of the barcode on the label may result in additional costs and a delay in the delivery time. If in doubt, you can always have it tested.

Track & Trace

All your Shipments can be traced via www.postnl.nl. If applicable, you can also view the recipient's signature. You can access your personal Track & Trace information via mijn.postnl.nl. Track & Trace is exclusively intended to inform you about your Shipments. You are explicitly prohibited from using Track & Trace information for other (commercial) purposes. It is also possible to obtain Track & Trace information via an integrated service. If you are the party notifying your customers you are obliged to always use the latest links to Track & Trace in your confirmation email. You can find out how to do this via this link. The use and retrieval of information related to your shipments are limited to the combination of your client number, client code and API key linked to your contract. Sharing this data with third parties is only permitted if it concerns an integrator or logistic partner with which you have a shipping contract. If you do share this data with a party other than that mentioned above, PostNL reserves the right to terminate the Track & Trace service.

Notifications

Email notifications proactively inform the recipient about the status of your Shipment via the recipient's email address you supplied. Email notifications are sent by PostNL as standard.

Correct pre-registration, including the recipient's email address is essential for notifications to be sent. If you know the recipient's email address, you must provide it in the pre-registration in all cases, so that PostNL is able to send e-mail notifications.

Integrated services

PostNL provides different options with which you can link certain PostNL services (including delivery options, time slot generation, barcode generation and label generation) to your systems. These are also referred to as integrated services. Table 1 provides a list of the applications.

The following service frameworks apply to the integrated services:

Data use

- Although PostNL aims to provide correct, complete and up-to-date information, PostNL cannot explicitly or implicitly guarantee that the information provided for an integrated service is correct, complete or up to date.

- Using an integrated service that may hinder other Internet users, pose a threat to the functioning of the website and/or could affect the information on the website or the underlying software, is not permitted.
- Use of the Shipping status API is intended for retrieving the Track & Trace status of your Shipments. Our network does not have unlimited capacity. For each shipment you have the right to consult the service every 15 minutes until the 'delivered' status is displayed. If it appears that disproportionate use is being made of the service, PostNL reserves the right to limit or terminate use of this service.
- You are expected to do your utmost to comply with the delivery preferences as indicated by the Addressee. You must provide adequate security for the data provided by PostNL and may only use this data to carry out and complete the order concerned.
- If the data contains personal data, you must guarantee that the personal data is used solely in accordance with the General Data Protection Regulation and related laws and regulations (including the Email Code 2012).

Use of the PostNL logo, icons and buttons

You must use the data provided by PostNL for integrated services (such as the PostNL logo, icons and different buttons) without making any changes to them. These items remain the property of PostNL and are copyright protected. Use of an integrated service must be halted immediately if PostNL issues a request for you to do so; you must delete all related content (text, banner, images) immediately.

Security

PostNL ensures adequate security for confidential data, but cannot guarantee that the integrated service will function without error or any interruptions.

Time slot indication

Delivery times provided for the service are indicative. PostNL does not accept any liability if delivery times are not met.

Delivery times

The time slot indication entered by the recipient in his/her profile will be taken into account as much as possible. However, the delivery times provided are indicative. PostNL does not accept any liability if delivery times are not met.

Continued development and upgrades

PostNL integrated services may be improved and expanded with new products and functionalities. PostNL expects users to regularly perform updates, so they use the latest versions of the integrated services. Users can be forced to upgrade.

PostNL reserves the right to terminate delivery options, applications and versions of applications. In this case a reasonable period of time will be adopted between the first announcement and the actual termination.

Indemnification

You indemnify PostNL from any claims by third parties (including recipients) in relation to the performance of the service.

PostNL's liability

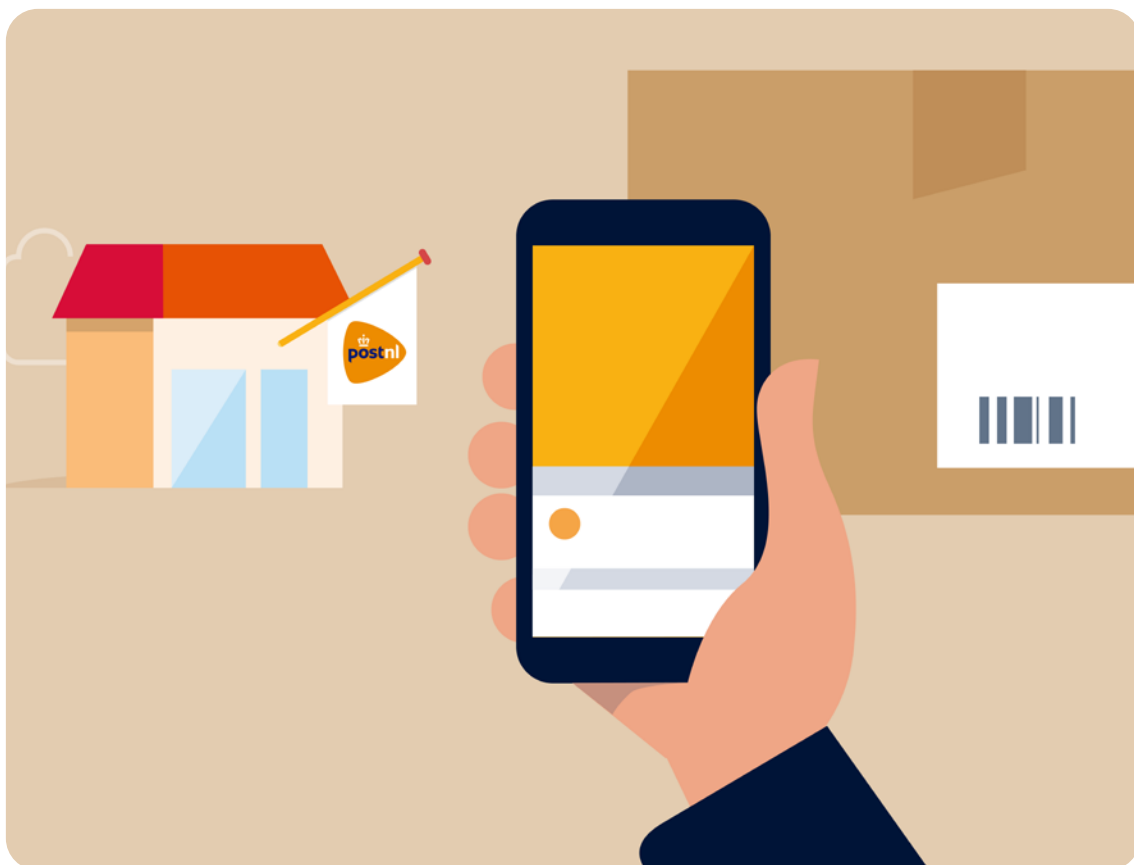

PostNL accepts no liability whatsoever for direct and/or indirect, intangible or consequential damage, including the loss of profit, which arises in any way whatsoever from, but not necessarily limited to (I) defects, viruses or other failings to equipment and other software in relation to accessing or using the integrated service, (II) the information that is supplied on or via the integrated service, (III) the interception, modification or improper use of information sent to PostNL or to you, (IV) the functioning or unavailability of the integrated service, (V) misuse of the integrated service, (VI) loss of data, (VII) downloading or using software made available through the integrated service or (VIII) claims made by in relation to use of the integrated service.

Table 1 - Overview of PostNL's integrated services

Application	Description
MyPostNL	This is an online application in which shipping labels, among other things, are generated, notifications are configured and the status of packages can be consulted.
Application Programming Interface (API)	Clients can use PostNL's API to integrate PostNL functionality in their systems using programming.

*DIY is only permitted in consultation with PostNL.

PLEASE NOTE: If you use an application that is not (or no longer) supported, PostNL reserves the right to no longer accept pre-registrations and/or labels or to apply surcharges. In this case a reasonable deadline will be adopted between the first announcement and the actual implementation.

2.2 Handover to PostNL: Collection service & Handover

To ensure that Shipments are delivered it is important that the Shipments are handed over to PostNL in the right way. PostNL provides several services for this purpose:

- Pickup service
- Handover at a PostNL location
- Handover at a PostNL Parcels sorting centre

Pickup service

With the Collection service packages are collected by PostNL from the designated collection location. They are subsequently handed over to one of PostNL's sorting centres. The service begins with taking receipt of the packages at the collection location (as indicated in the consignment note) and ends when the packages have been delivered to the PostNL handover location concerned (and the consignment note has been signed for receipt).

Options related to the collection service are determined based on the client-shipment profile. The client-shipment profile consists of the following references:

- Shipment type
- Number of Shipments and references of the Shipments
- Location of the collection address

Table 4 - Specifications for the Collection service

PostNL strives to perform the collection service within the agreed time slots. If this is not possible, PostNL will repair this within 1 working day if operational capacity so permits. The timeliness are measured over the collection appointments in 1 week, excluding collection appointments in the event of force majeure (such as extreme weather conditions or strikes).

Additional services

The following services are possible in addition to the Collection service.

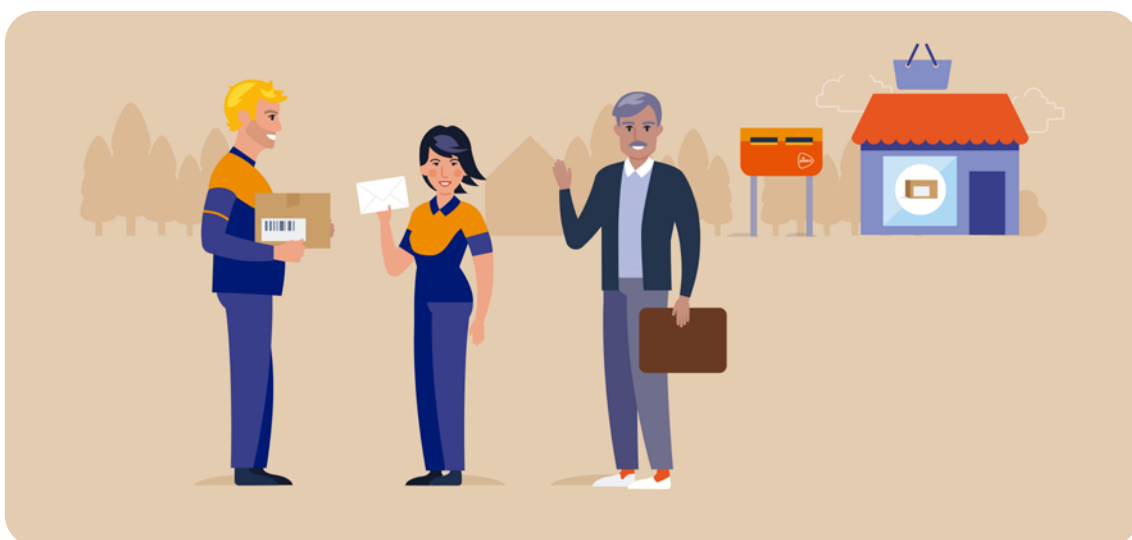

These options depend on the client-shipment profile and operational feasibility; only in coordination with your designated PostNL contact.

Handover at a PostNL location

Packages can be handed over at one of the PostNL locations. Packages have been received by PostNL once a proof-of-acceptance scan of the package has been produced at the PostNL location. If the Shipments are tendered in a roller container, there will be no proof-of-acceptance scan for the package at a PostNL location. PostNL will then have taken receipt of packages if there is a scan at the sorting centre. The following specifications apply to this service.

Table 6 - Specifications for handover at a PostNL location

Reference	Specifications
Handover specifications and volume	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Handover at PostNL locations is permitted up to 30,000 packages per year, depending on the size of a package or the total dm3 of Shipments per day, as formulated below. The maximum number of dm3 of Shipments per day may vary for each PostNL location. Consult the PostNL location guide or the Business Location advice at MyPostNL for the suitable PostNL locations, and the maximum volume permitted. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> At the largest PostNL locations, a dm3 of no more than 5 roller containers per day can be handed over. In the event of a structural volume of >3 roller containers per delivery or deviating parcel sizes, PostNL reserves the right to request that the customer uses a sorting centre as a handover location or purchases a Collection service. Packages larger than 100 cm (longest side) X 50 cm x 50 cm can only be handed over at the largest PostNL locations, which can be found via the PostNL location guide or location advice on MyPostNL. It is not possible to tender Shipments that require cooling. Parcels and letterbox packages+ can be handed over at our PostNL locations. It is not possible to hand over packages at all our PostNL locations; this may also apply to other types of Shipments, such as letters. Which type of Shipments can be handed over can be checked on the PostNL location guide or via the Business location advice at MyPostNL.
Handover deadline, delivery time and opening hours	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Handover times vary for each PostNL location. Consult the PostNL location guide or the Business location advice at MyPostNL to see which handover time applies to which PostNL location. National handover deadlines <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Monday - Friday: before 18:30 Saturday: before 17:00 PostNL aims to deliver packages handed over on Monday through Friday on the next working day (including Saturday), provided that the packages have been handed over at the PostNL location before the deadline. For a select number of PostNL locations at which packages are handed over during the weekend, PostNL also aims to deliver them on Monday. The proof-of-acceptance scan at a PostNL location stands for the moment of transfer, which must be before the handover deadline for delivery on the next working day. Opening hours vary for each PostNL location. These can be found in the PostNL location guide and in the Business location advice via MyPostNL. The opening hours may differ from the handover deadline and cannot be used for the sender's delivery promise to the Addressee.
Business location advice PostNL location via MyPostNL	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> MyPostNL indicates via the Business location advice which PostNL location is most suitable for the Shipments of a specific customer. This advice is based on, among other things, the number and size (dm3) of the packages to be handed over per day. If the location guide or Business location advice is not consulted and followed, it is not certain that all Shipments can be handed over at another chosen PostNL location. The Business location advice can also be used to search for the most suitable PostNL location based on preferences. For example, preferences such as: distance to the PostNL location, handover deadline, and self-service at a PostNL location.

Handover at a PostNL sorting centre

Packages can be handed over at one of the PostNL sorting centres. This service starts when the transport vehicle is allowed on to the sorting centre's site and ends when the packages have been unloaded.

The availability of this service depends on the client-shipment profile and operational feasibility and is only possible in coordination with your designated PostNL contact.

The following specifications apply to this service.

Table 7 - Specifications for handover at a PostNL sorting centre

Handover is only possible at this agreed handover location(s). PostNL reserves the right to refer to another handover location if the customer's shipping profile or means of transport used deviates from what was previously agreed.

If PostNL cannot provide the service, PostNL will take remedial measures if operational capacity allows.

Packaging

PostNL supports the Collection and Handover services at a PostNL sorting centre with packaging by making roller containers available, on which the packages can be stacked.

Requesting and changing collection service, packaging or handover to a PostNL sorting centre

The structural agreements for the collection service, packaging or handover at a PostNL sorting centre are established in consultation between PostNL and the customer.

The following requests related to these agreements must be presented to PostNL in a timely manner:

- Higher or lower volumes of roller containers or other packaging receptacles agreed in advance, to be collected or handed over. For a specific collection appointment, day, period or for the structural appointment. We also ask you to indicate the type of packages that will be tendered (for destinations within the Netherlands, Belgium or export; regular or non-machine suitable; intended for the Small Parcels Sorting Centre)
- Change in the collection location or handover location.
- Change in the collection time or handover time.

- Temporary suspension of the series of appointments for one or more days.
- Cancellation of a single appointment.
- Changes in load type ratios in accordance with Table 9.

PostNL indicates the deadlines for communicating one of the above-mentioned changes in MijnPostNL or they can be requested by telephone. Deadlines may change during busy periods. If you do not communicate requests or changes to journeys in time PostNL cannot comply with your request.

The request will only be in force if confirmed by PostNL. This confirmation can be found via MyPostNL or via the contact person at PostNL. PostNL aims to confirm or reject the request within a reasonable period - and at least before the start of the day/time to which the request relates.
